We understand that calibration may be an essential part of your supply chain. As an essential business, Transcat is here to offer you uninterrupted services through our network of calibration labs across North America.

Transcat has established new protocols to ensure the safety and security of our employees and valued customers. As part of this, all our drivers and shipping and receiving clerks have received specialized training to ensure the safe handling of your critical equipment. We are practicing social distancing, which includes minimizing any in-person contact. Rather than dropping off your equipment in person, we ask that you utilize any of the following when arranging for calibration service:

- Pick-up and delivery
- Shipping In/Out via UPS and FedEx
- On-site services, only where critical

Thank you for helping us to “flatten the curve” of this global pandemic.
